Consent for use of photos/video to support Outdoor/Empty Classroom Day

Dear school, parent/guardian and children

Thank you for agreeing to share your photos of outdoor learning and play with the organisers of Empty Classroom Day, Eco Schools England, and the global campaign Outdoor Classroom Day.

Outdoor Classroom Day is a global campaign led by the Project Dirt and backed by Unilever's Dirt is Good brands (Persil, Omo etc.) to get more kids learning and playing outdoors. Inspired by the UK's Empty Classroom Day, we are raising awareness of the importance of outdoor play and learning by doing for happy childhoods and to build skills for tomorrow. In the UK the campaign will continue to be called Empty Classroom Day and is being led by Eco Schools England, part of Keep Britain Tidy. You can find out more about the campaign at: www.outdoorclassroomday.com and www.emptyclassroomday.org.uk.

We would be grateful if you could sign the attached form to allow us to use your photos in promoting our campaign further.

The photos/video will be held in Project Dirt's photo library. The photos/video will be used by Project Dirt and their campaign partners, as well as third-party organisations that occasionally work with us to promote getting children outdoors to play, get dirty and learn about the world. They may be used outside the campaign, but always for the same purpose.

The photos/video may be used on publications, promotional materials, websites and social media platforms, DVDs and other marketing materials providing essential information on our work. They will help us engage with other parents, primary schools, policy makers and politicians.

If at any time you wish your photos/video to be deleted from the photo library, please contact Project Dirt.

Thank you for your help.
